Gradus wall protection systems have been installed throughout the newly refurbished Oncology Unit at Nuffield Hospital Cambridge, helping to create a low-maintenance, hygienic and aesthetically appealing environment for patients and staff.

Gradus installed a comprehensive wall protection system, consisting of handrails, corner guards and bed protectors, throughout the department to help protect the attractive new décor from scuffs, scrapes and stains.

The General Manager wanted to create a comfortable environment for patients and felt it was crucial a wall protection system was installed that would maintain the department's clean and fresh appearance, as well as helping to maintain high hygiene standards.
